Police Looking for Leads in Rady Home Invasion Robbery Case; Reward Increased to $10,000

Release Date: February 22, 2007

San Diego County Crime Stoppers, working with the SDPD Robbery Unit and the Rady Family Foundation, are asking for the public's assistance to help identify and locate the suspect responsible for the Rady home invasion. Crime Stoppers and the Rady Family Foundation have now increased their combined reward to a total of $10,000.

The crime occurred on February 6, 2007 at the Rady residence in La Jolla. At approximately 4:00 p.m., the suspect, posing as someone delivering documents, persuaded Mrs. Rady to open her front door. Once the door was opened, the suspect forced his way into the house eventually tying up the housekeeper and Mrs. Rady with duct tape. The suspect remained in the house for several hours waiting for Mr. Rady to come home. When Mr. Rady came home, the suspect used a taser to subdue him and tied Mr. Rady with duct tape. The suspect remained in the house until approximately 10:00 p.m. The Rady's and their housekeeper freed themselves shortly after the suspect left and called 911. The suspect got away with a small amount of cash.

The suspect is described as a Middle Eastern or Hispanic male, approximately 5' 8" tall and 165 lbs. He had a medium to muscular build, was unshaven, and had shiny black hair; the hair could have been a wig. He was wearing a black blazer jacket, black collared shirt, tan pants and soft soled lace-up black shoes. He had stud earrings in both ears and carried a black leather type bag with two straps. The weapons used were a black semi-auto handgun and a taser. The taser was described as a law enforcement model, black in color, similar to a Citizen Taser model X26c. See attached suspect composite and taser photo.
